NEW-YORK TRIBUNE.

Gen. Minon, like Gen. Pillow, has come out with a long letter in defence of his military conduct. It is due the Mexican to say that his literary effort is superior to the Tennesseean's; with the qualifications of a General, we suspect both are equally en-

Gen. Minon is very sovere on Santa Anna. The latter's misconduct, however great, yet is no ex- Lewis use for his own dastardly behavior. It is proper lect that recrimination is no defence.

We do not know that Minon has been unjustly evere toward Santa Anna: in truth, to be just to ward any Mexican general is to be severe. They seem all cowards alike, with most rare exceptions.

It may not be Mr. Polk's fault that Santa Anna wardice, and, by his acts, his own. They both. doubtedly, have good points for running.

The last few weeks have been spent by me in what is the village of Grand Rapids on roads, where I was induced for a short time to remain to inform myself currectly of the many advantages said to be possessed by this town over any other west of Detroit, and which by many, it is confidently asserted, will in a few years rival Detroit herself. The population exceeds somewhat 2,000 in number, and I was not a little surprised at the difference in the apparent energy of the business men Decign in the apparent energy of the business men of the place, as compared to many of the towns of the South and Southeast. The river at Grand Rapi's becomes a broad and powerful stream, far exceeding in capacity the Generace in our own State and not so subject to exceeding low stages of water, and thereby affording one of the very best water powers in the State or Union, if properly improved; but as the canal is now situated, it certainly is a shabby concern, and can hardly be entitled to the name of a bydraulin power, not waitstanding there are situated upon it two fouring mills, two foundries, and various other establishments incident to the developing resources of the mighty West. How, now surveyor-General at Detroit has erected buildings for the manufacture of salt and sunk a salt well some 700 ft. from which water is procured, which yields from 50 to 60 bushels per day by builting and evaporation. I regard this however, more as an experiment than as satisfactorily exhibiting the rest capacity for manufacturing as sit. MARINE COURT—Before Judge Smith—Nath! P. Sillick vs. Uriah P. Lery—Action by a carpenter to recover, under the iten law, of the owner of a house which he assisted to erect, money due to the workmen by the contractor. We understand there were thirty or lotty men engaged on the building. The contractor who employed them, after getting bis first payment from the owner, left the City, being indebted to the men. The plainiff and others then filed their notices in the County Clerk's office against the owner, under the lieu law, to recover the amount, but did no work after so filing.

The Judge decided that where a workman intends to avail himself of the lien law, he must file notice immediately after commencing contract, so as to give the owner notice, and can only claim, under the lien, for work done after that time—Judgment for defendant.
